

Hartwick Atelier — Proposed copy

14 September 2026 · for Aloha · nothing is on the site yet

Only new lines are listed. Anything already on your wireframes is unchanged. •A = a detail only you can settle •C = Christina (legal / consent). No Master is named, no provenance asserted beyond the naming sheet, no delivery term invented.

Homepage

| WHERE                       | PROPOSED                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|-----------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| COLLECTION INDEX · 7 ROWS   | Skirt 002 · Handspun Fresh Pink Cotton Khadi / Shirt 001 · Kora Khadi, Handwoven Pinstripe / Trouser 001 · Handloom Cotton Ikat, Celeste / Shirt 004 · Ultra-Fine Handspun Jamdani, Tulip Motif / Coat 001 · Handloom Ikat, Neige, Hand-Guided Quilting / Dress 001 · Handspun Silk-Cotton, Block Printed Natural Dye, St. Germain / Belt 001 · Gota Patti Embroidery, Cotton Velvet & Silk — all Lot I •A (the Lot I list) |
| COLLECTION INDEX · LINK     | View the Release                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| MASTERS INDEX · 9 ROLES     | Khadi Weaver · Natural Indigo Dyer · Khadi Spinner · Ajrakh Block Printer · Hand Finisher · Ikat Dyer · Gota Patti Embroiderer · Jamdani Weaver · Pattern Cutter                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| FEATURED LOT                | Lot I · Skirt 003 — Handspun cotton, white with a blue border, woven in West Bengal. A fully pleated mid-length skirt from the Calcutta set. Made at the pace the loom and the season allow. Fibre: Handspun cotton · Colour: White with blue border · Made by: The Masters, West Bengal · Availability: Through The Register •A                                                                              |
| JOURNAL CARDS · STANDFIRSTS | The Loom — Technique, and the hands that hold it. / The Colour — The plant, the mineral and the season behind the cloth. / The Wearer — The piece once it enters someone's life. Link: Read the Journal                                                                                                                                                                                |
| FOOTER                      | © 2026 Hartwick Atelier · Made by Masters                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

Product page — section defaults

| WHERE                   | PROPOSED                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|-------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| AVAILABILITY LINE       | Edition of [n] · Lot I — or, without data, Made in one cycle, not restocked.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| THE PIECE · INTRO       | Cut with the precision of fine tailoring and finished by hand. The silhouette is contemporary; the cloth is not. Each piece is made to move well, sit beautifully and be kept — the kind of thing people stop and ask you about.                                                                                                     |
| MATERIAL RECORD · INTRO | Handspun yarn is never perfectly even. Handwoven cloth carries the rhythm of the person at the loom. A natural dye answers the season it was made in — expanding in summer heat, contracting in winter cold. These are not flaws to be excused. They are the record of how the piece was made, and they are set down here precisely. |

| WHERE                   | PROPOSED                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|-------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MADE BY MASTERS · INTRO | Every piece is made by named people in named places. Where a Master has agreed to be named, their name, workshop and technique appear here, with the part of the work that passed through their hands.                                                                                                                                                                   |
| THE ORIGIN · INTRO      | A piece does not come from one place. The fibre, the spinning, the loom, the dye and the final construction each have their own workshop and their own season. The route below is published only where it has been confirmed.                                                                                                                                            |
| PROCESS · HEADING       | Each mark is a process this piece has passed through. ·A (or keep yours)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| FIT & MEASUREMENTS      | Measurements are taken flat on the garment itself. Where two sizes are close, the model's height and the size worn are given so you can judge the ease. + numbers from Angela                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| CARE & LONGEVITY        | Dry clean or hand wash cold. No tumble dry. No synthetics here. Handwork results in variations; we cherish these for their human touch. Natural dyes are living colour: they soften with wear and with light, and a piece made in summer will breathe differently from one made in winter.                                                                               |
| DELIVERY & RETURNS      | Each piece is made, finished and checked in India and dispatched from [location]. Delivery takes [n–n] days to [regions]. Duties and taxes are shown at checkout. Returns are accepted within [n] days of delivery, unworn, with the Lot tag attached. Write to contact@bartwickatelier.com and a person will reply. ·C |
| EDITION / LOT           | Every piece carries its Lot number — Lot I, Lot II — marking where it sits in the life of the house. Where a piece is individually numbered, its Edition records its place in the run: 3 / 25 is the third of twenty-five. Runs are sized to what the Masters can make in one cycle. Some are twenty-five; some are two. There is no restock.                            |
| WEARER'S NOTE           | Stays hidden until a real, permission-confirmed quote exists.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| RELATED PIECES          | Skirt 003 · Handspun Cotton Khadi, Red-Brick Pinstripe / Trouser 001 · Handloom Cotton Ikat, Celeste                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| BAG, EMPTY              | Your bag is empty. The Release is open. → Enter the Collection                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 404                     | This page is not in the record. It may have moved with a Release, or never existed. The Collection and the Journal are one step away.                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| SEARCH, NO RESULTS      | Nothing in the record matches. Try a Style number (Skirt 002), a technique (Khadi, Ikat, Jamdani) or a Lot.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |

The Circle page

| WHERE                                      | PROPOSED                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|--------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| IS THERE A FEE TO JOIN?                    | No. There is no fee, no tier and nothing to buy. The Circle is a small group of founding friends of the house.                                                                                          |
| IS THE CIRCLE A LOYALTY PROGRAMME?         | No. There are no points, no rewards for spending and no promotions. It exists so that a small number of people can stay close to the work — the Masters, the materials and the pieces — as it develops. |
| WHERE CAN PRIVATE APPOINTMENTS TAKE PLACE? | Online, at a time that suits you, or in person during a Residency or an Atelier Evening. ·A locations (your design said Mallorca)                                                                       |

| WHERE                            | PROPOSED                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|----------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| HOW WILL MY INFORMATION BE USED? | To reply to your request and, if you join, to send the notes, viewings and invitations you have asked for. Nothing is sold or shared. You can leave at any time by replying to any note. •C           |
| WHEN THE FORM IS OFF             | The Circle is a small, invitation-only group of founding friends of the house. There is no application. If you would like to stay close to the work, The Register is open to all. → Join The Register |
| CONSENT LINE                     | Yes, you may contact me about this request. I understand this places me on The Register, and that I can withdraw at any time. •C                                                                      |

The Collection — new page

| WHERE          | PROPOSED                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|----------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| HEADING        | A body of work that accumulates.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| INTRO          | The Collection does not reset with the season. Every Style is a permanent silhouette — Skirt 001, Shirt 007 — and every Expression is the cloth it is realised in for a given Lot. What is available now is The Release. Everything the house has made stays in The Archive. → How the Collection works                                               |
| RELEASE RECORD | The Release · Lot I / Pieces in this Release · [n] / Made by · The Masters, India / Ships · [date], confirmed at order / Restock · None. When the last piece goes, the Release closes. •A                                                                                                                                                                    |
| FILTERS        | All · Apparel · Fine Silks · Yoga Mats — Technique · Style · Sort                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| CARD TAGS      | Core Style · Release-exclusive · Woven in West Bengal · Embroidered in Rajasthan (only where true) •A Core Style list                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| DARK BAND      | Nothing here is restocked. Each Edition is sized to what the Masters can make in one cycle — some runs are twenty-five, some are two. A Jamdani weaver makes a quarter of an inch a day. When the last piece of a Release goes, the Release closes, and the record moves to The Archive. → Meet the Masters                                    |
| THE ARCHIVE    | Everything the house has made. The Archive is the permanent record of every piece, Lot by Lot. It is not a sale section. A piece that did not find its wearer in its original Release remains eligible to return in a future one. → Enter the Archive · Lot I · current / Lot II · in production / Lot III · announced through The Register •A |
| REGISTER BAND  | Be first to receive what comes next. Each Release is announced to The Register before it is public — the pieces, the number made, the ship date. Free, and open to all.                                                                                                                                                                        |

The Masters — new page

| WHERE | PROPOSED                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|-------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| HERO  | The knowledge most of the world has forgotten. Khadi weavers. Ajrakh block printers. Ikat dyers. Jamdani weavers. Gota Patti embroiderers. Each technique was developed over centuries in alignment with the natural world — dyes drawn from plants and minerals, processes governed by sunlight, rainfall and time. This knowledge lives in hands and families, not factories. |

| WHERE            | PROPOSED                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| THE PACE         | Their pace is the pace of nature. That is the pace of Hartwick. A Jamdani artisan weaves a quarter of an inch a day. Ajrakh silk rests between each of its sixteen processes, because the natural dye needs time to bond with the fibre. Natural indigo is fixed by the sun. There are no shortcuts, and the Lot sizes are not a marketing device — they are the honest yield of what nature and the Masters can produce in one cycle. We do not rush what took this long to become this extraordinary.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| TECHNIQUES INDEX | 01 Khadi — Yarn spun by hand, then woven by hand. The count is never perfectly even, which is why the cloth breathes and drapes as it does. / 02 Jamdani — A quarter of an inch a day. The motif is woven into the cloth as it is made, not printed on afterwards. / 03 Ajrakh — Block-printed and resist-dyed in stages, with rest between each so the dye can bond with the fibre. / 04 Ikat — The pattern is decided before the cloth exists: the yarn is bound and dyed first, then woven. / 05 Natural &amp; Ayurvedic dye — Colour drawn from plants and minerals, fixed by sun and time. It responds to the season it was made in. / 06 Hand block print — Carved wood, dipped and stamped layer by layer. Each block started as a tree. / 07 Gota Patti — Hand embroidery on cotton velvet with copper zari thread. •A confirm 02 and 04 wording |
| THE MASTERS GRID | Named with permission. The Masters are not supporting characters. Each appears here with their agreement — name, workshop and region. Until that agreement is given, the role and the technique are shown and the name is withheld. Nothing here is written by us on their behalf. Cards: Jamdani Weaver · Khadi Spinner · Ajrakh Block Printer · Ikat Dyer · Natural Indigo Dyer · Gota Patti Embroiderer                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| STEWARDSHIP BAND | To work with The Masters is to become a steward of something irreplaceable. Every piece in the Collection ships with its Lot number, its Origin, and — with permission — the name of the Master who made it. The value of each piece begins with knowledge held in human hands. → See the pieces they made                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| REGISTER BAND    | Stories from the workshops, before anyone else. The Dispatch names the technique, the plant and — with permission — the Master. It goes to The Register first.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |

The Journal — new page

| WHERE                              | PROPOSED                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| HEADING                            | Notes on cloth, colour, and the people who make it.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| INTRO                              | The Journal is where The Dispatch is kept. Considered writing on craft, provenance, the Masters and what is coming next — sent to The Register first, and published here afterwards. •A the "Register first" rule                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| CATEGORIES                         | The Loom · The Colour · The Wearer · From the Founder · The Dispatch                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| FIRST NOTES (TITLES · STANDFIRSTS) | A quarter of an inch a day. What a Jamdani weaver makes between dawn and dusk, why the cloth cannot be hurried, and what that means for the size of a Lot. / Indigo waits for the sun. Natural indigo is fixed by light, not by chemistry. On the days the sun does not come, the dye house waits. / Sixteen processes, and the rest between them. Ajrakh silk rests between each stage so the dye can bond with the fibre. The waiting is part of the technique. / How to read an Edition number. 3 / 25: what the two numbers on the hangtag mean, and why a run is sized the way it is. / Weaving as vibration. Angela on the research behind the house — with monks, with physicists — and why what you wear carries an energy. / One Style, many Expressions. The silhouette is permanent. The season, the plant and the Master change the cloth it is made in. / Dispatch No. 01 — the first Release. The pieces, the number made, the ship date. Stated plainly, as every Release will be. |
| DISPATCH ARCHIVE                   | Kept here, after it has gone to The Register. Not a promotion. Not a sales email. A considered piece of writing, three to four times a year around each Release and occasionally between. •A cadence                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |

| WHERE                             | PROPOSED                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|-----------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| REGISTER BAND                     | The Dispatch arrives by letter first. Every note is sent to The Register before it appears here. Free, and open to all.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| The Register — new page           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| WHERE                             | PROPOSED                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| HERO                              | To be on The Register is to be first. Free, and open to all. The Register is how the house speaks to the people who care about how things are made — first to hear of each Release, first to be invited to Atelier Evenings, and the only address The Dispatch is sent to. Fields: Email · First name (optional) · consent · C · Join The Register · A confirmation arrives by email. One click, and you are on The Register.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| WHAT YOU RECEIVE                  | 01 The Dispatch — A considered piece of writing, not a sales email. On craft, provenance, the people behind the pieces, and what is coming next. / 02 Each Release, first — The pieces, the number made and the ship date — announced to The Register before the Release is public. Scarcity stated plainly. / 03 Atelier Evenings — Private gatherings around craft, conversation and community. The Register is the only route to them.                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| HOW IT WORKS                      | Three steps. No account. 01 Join — One address. Your email, and your first name if you would like the letters addressed to you. Nothing else is asked for. / 02 Confirm — One click. A confirmation arrives in your inbox. Clicking it is what places you on The Register, so no one can be added by someone else. / 03 Receive — Then, the letters. The Dispatch, each Release before it is public, and the invitations. Every letter carries a link to leave; it takes one click.                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| PLAINLY                           | No urgency. No noise. We do not manufacture urgency. Expect the announcement of three to four Releases a year, The Dispatch around each, and very little in between. Your address is used for The Register and nothing else. The Register is not The Circle. The Circle is a small, invitation-only group of founding friends of the house, and has no application route. The Register is open to everyone, and it is the door to everything that follows.                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| THE DETAILS                       | Is The Register free? — Yes. There is no fee, no tier and nothing to buy. It is a list of people who want to know how the pieces are made and when they are available. / How often will I hear from you? — Around each Release — three to four a year — and occasionally between, when there is something worth a letter. / Can I leave? — Yes, from any letter, with one click. No questions. / Is this the same as The Circle? — No. The Circle is invitation-only and has no application route. The Register is open to all. / What happens to my email address? — It is used to send you The Register's letters and for nothing else. It is not sold or shared. ·C |
| REGISTER CONSENT LINE (ALL FORMS) | Yes, add me to The Register. I understand Hartwick Atelier will write to me about Releases, The Dispatch and Atelier Evenings, and that I can leave with one click at any time. ·C                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |

Your decisions (·A): the Lot I list and Featured Lot piece · Edition sizes and ship date · Core Style list · Process heading · the "Dispatch to Register first" rule · Dispatch cadence · appointment locations · whether Lot II exists · Jamdani/Ikat wording.

Christina (·C): both consent lines · privacy answers · delivery and returns terms · the Circle reading.